3 Conclusion of Contract

- 3.1 A Contract enters into force when both Contracting Parties have legitimately signed it or when the Customer has approved a binding Offer. A Contract on a one-time deal enters into force when the Seller has approved an Order or the Seller has actually started to carry out an Order. Any terms differing from the terms included in the Offer that the Customer has included in the Order only apply if the Seller has expressly in Writing approved the Customer's terms in advance.
- 3.2 The Customer shall approve or reject each Offer by the deadline specified in the Offer or, if there is no such deadline in the Offer, within ten (10) Weekdays of the Seller having sent the Offer. If the Customer approves the Offer, the Offer is considered approved as is. If the Customer fails to notify the Seller of its approval by the deadline as specified above, the Customer shall be considered to have rejected the Offer, at which time the Offer (also including binding offers) is no longer binding on the Seller.

4 Contract validity

- 4.1 A Contract enters into force when the conditions on conclusion of Contract listed in Clause 3 are met and, unless the Contracting Parties have agreed to the contrary in Writing, will remain in force until further notice for a maximum period of two (2) years and with a mutual term of notice of six (6) months. The validity of a Contract on a one-time deal ceases when both Contracting Parties have met their contractual obligations.

5 Product quality

- 5.1 The Seller guarantees that the quality of Products at the time of delivery complies with at least the Specifications. The Seller does not offer any other Product guarantee, neither explicit nor implicit, nor can the Seller be held liable for the Product's fitness for a particular purpose nor for any purpose for which the Products or similar products are usually used.

6 Modifying products

- 6.1 During the validity of the Contract, the Seller has the right to switch or discontinue Products or revise their Specifications by submitting a notice to that effect on the Seller's Website or in a similar manner at the latest one (1) month prior to entry into force of the modifications. The Seller also has the right to revise the prices of switched or modified Products.
- 6.2 The Seller has the right to apply any Product changes that will not change the Product's Specifications without informing the changes to the Customer.
- 6.3 The Customer has the right to terminate the Contract with a prior notice, effective on the date the modifications enter into force, if the Customer does not approve the modifications laid down in Clause 6 .

7 Pricing principles and price revisions

- 7.1 The selling price of Products shall be the currently valid price of the Seller for the Product in question on the date of delivery, unless expressly agreed to the contrary by the Seller and the Customer in Writing. The selling price of lubricants and chemicals shall be the currently valid price of the Seller for the Product in question on the date of Order.
- 7.2 The selling price of liquid fuel tank deliveries consists of the product price and the delivery fee. The delivery fee is order-specific. If the tank truck has to be transferred when unloading the product to more than one tank, the Seller shall charge a delivery fee for every instance of truck transfer.
- 7.3 The Seller has the right to freely revise its daily selling price and/or the pricing basis without informing the Customer.
- 7.4 If the Contracting Parties have expressly in Writing agreed that the price of a Product is a price other than the Seller's currently valid selling price, the Seller has the right to revise the agreed selling price and/or pricing basis at its own discretion by submitting a notice to that effect in advance to the Customer.
- 7.5 The Customer has the right to terminate the Contract with a prior notice, effective on the date the revision enters into force, if the Customer does not approve the revision laid down in Clause 7.4 .
- 7.6 Furthermore, also without informing the Customer, the Seller has the right to revise the agreed selling price (i) due to pricing-related issues the Seller is unable to influence, such as changed exchange rates, Laws, tax-like charges, taxation policies, or international acquisition prices of raw materials or products, or (ii) if changes occur in production, shipping, or transport costs or the general cost level. The Seller shall apply the new prices immediately after the change having become effective.
- 7.7 The selling price does not include the value added tax applicable at the time of delivery nor any other extra charges based on the Law, such as oil waste charges applied to lubricants. The currently valid value added tax and any extra charges based on the Law shall be added to the selling price in connection with invoicing; they shall be visible in the invoice used to charge the selling price. The value added tax and any other extra charges based on the Law shall be paid in compliance with the terms of payment laid down in the Contract simultaneously with the selling price.
- 7.8 Additions that comply with the Seller's regular policy may be added to the selling price on a case-by-case basis.

8 Term of payment

- 8.1 The term of payment is fourteen (14) days from the invoice date, unless the Seller and the Customer have expressly agreed otherwise.
- 8.2 The Seller is entitled to one-sidedly change the agreed term of payment if the credit risk related to the Customer has increased according to the Seller's estimate. The credit risk has increased at least when (without excluding other reasons and situations) the Customer's credit rating has decreased. The Seller will notify the Customer in advance of the change in the term of payment.

- 8.3 Should the Customer not accept the change of the term of payment according to Section 8.2, the Customer is entitled to terminate the Contract as of the time when the change takes effect by announcing this to the Seller in advance.
- 8.4 Invoicing shall be carried out in compliance with the quantity stated in the consignment note.
- 8.5 Penalty interest of 16% per annum shall be paid for delayed payments, starting from the due date. Furthermore, the Customer is obligated to pay any payment reminder or debt collection charges in force at the time in question.
- 8.6 In case any of the Seller's receivables from the Customer is overdue and unpaid, all of its receivables from the Customer shall fall due for payment immediately, regardless of the agreed due dates or the due dates shown on the invoices, if the Seller so requests in Writing.
- 8.7 The invoicing currency shall be the euro.
- 8.8 The Customer commits to paying all invoices based on the Contract in full, and the Customer does not have any right to reduce or set off any payments based on counterclaims or complaints.
- 8.9 The Seller has the right to request acceptable collateral from the Customer prior to delivery or as the collateral for a delivery lot that has already been delivered but has not yet been paid. The Seller is not obligated to deliver the Product before acceptable collateral has been set. The Seller has the right to charge from the Customer reasonable costs arising from processing of the collateral.

9 Invoicing

- 9.1 The Customer has the right to select e-invoicing in which case the Seller shall send all invoices to the Customer's e-invoicing operator in electronic format. The Customer shall process and pay each invoice by the due date and verify that the forwarding details given by the Customer are correct. The Seller assumes no responsibility for data transfer between the Customer and its operator or for any losses caused by any problems in such data transfer. The Customer shall submit any changes to the forwarding details in Writing to the Customer Service at the latest fourteen (14) Weekdays prior to their entry into force. E-invoicing starts when the forwarding details have been entered in the Seller's systems; however, not before the Customer's operator has established the necessary routing. The Seller reserves the right to spend a reasonable amount of time on processing the forwarding details. Additional information about e-invoicing is available at www.neste.fi/verkkolasku or by contacting the Customer Service.
- 9.2 The Seller charges the currently valid extra fee for account management and/or invoicing.

10 Order

- 10.1 The Seller shall deliver Products based on Orders or as automatic deliveries if the Contracting Parties have expressly agreed on automatic deliveries in Writing. The Customer can place an order on the Seller's Website, on the Seller's extranet, or in the Customer Service.
- 10.2 Always without liability for damage, the Seller is entitled to reject the Order by announcing this to the Customer in three (3) Weekdays from receiving the Order.

11 Lead time

- 11.1 The Seller's regular lead time for fuels is a maximum of six (6) Weekdays or, in the case of specific areas mentioned on the Seller's Website, eight (8) Weekdays from the reception of an Order.
- 11.2 The regular lead time for bulk and IBC container deliveries of lubricants and chemicals is a maximum of ten (10) Weekdays from the reception of an Order. Piece goods shall be delivered to the Customer with a lead time of a maximum of seven (7) Weekdays from the reception of an Order.
- 11.3 The Seller usually delivers Products on Weekdays.
- 11.4 The Seller may, at the Customer's request, deliver a Product faster than in the regular lead time, provided that the Product is available. Deliveries with an atypical lead time require special arrangements, and thus the Seller will charge the currently valid express delivery fee for any delivery delivered faster than in the regular lead time and/or the currently valid holiday delivery fee if the Customer has requested a delivery on a day that is not a Weekday.
- 11.5 If the Seller is unable to meet its contractual obligations due to a force majeure event as laid down in Clause 24, the lead time shall be extended by the validity period of the force majeure event.

12 Delivery quantities

- 12.1 The Seller has determined Minimum Delivery Quantities for its Products.

- 12.2 The Seller can deliver smaller quantities by request of the Customer. However, the currently valid extra fee shall be added to the price of such deliveries. In the case of fuels, packaged lubricants and vehicle chemicals, the said extra fee shall be the minimum delivery fee. In the case of lubricants and bulk deliveries of vehicle chemicals, the Customer shall pay the actual transport costs.
- 12.3 The Customer is obligated to inspect the status of its tanks prior to ordering a Product to verify that there is sufficient room to store the ordered Products.
- 12.4 If the ordered quantity of a Product cannot be stored in the Customer's tank, the Seller has the right to revise the unit price of the ordered Product to comply with the actual quantity delivered and also charge the Customer the currently valid minimum delivery fee, the transport costs arising from the returning of the Products, and any other additional expenses of the Seller.
- 12.5 The Seller's delivery may be 10% larger or smaller than the quantity stated in the Order. Invoicing shall comply with the actually delivered quantity.
- 12.6 If the Seller delivers less than 90% of the quantity stated in the Order due to a reason not attributable to the Customer and at least 400 liters of fuel is missing from the delivery, the Seller shall deliver the missing quantity as an additional delivery.

13 Delivery site

- 13.1 The Customer shall verify that there is a road to the delivery site and the road is in such condition that a delivery truck can use it safely and without damaging the road. In the wintertime, the road and the discharge site shall be sanded and ploughed or shoveled so that they are free of snow. If the delivery truck must drive slower than normal when entering or exiting the unloading site due to the location of the unloading site, the Seller has the right to charge the Customer any additional costs arising to the Seller.
- 13.2 The Customer shall verify that the Seller is given in the Order specific unloading instructions and that the unloading site, equipment, tanks and their placement comply with the Laws and the Contract and the person delivering the Product can easily reach them.
- 13.3 If the discharge site is located at a height of more than 1.5 meters (4.9 ft), the site shall be equipped with a filling platform of at least 1 x 1 meters (3.3 x 3.3 ft) that is equipped with railings. If the filling platform is at a height of more than 0.5 meters (1.64 ft), there shall be steps with a railing to the platform.
- 13.4 Delivery sites for gas products shall always be at street level.
- 13.5 The filling openings in all tanks shall be clearly marked to avoid mixing Products.
- 13.6 The Seller has the right to refuse Product deliveries and terminate the Contract without being in breach of Contract if a delivery site does not comply with the contractual terms, the delivery truck or the Seller's employee delivering Products is unable to reach the unloading site safely, or if there are any other defects endangering safety at the unloading site.

14 Term of delivery

- 14.1 The term of delivery applied to bulk products is TOP Asiakkaan säiliön purkuliitin FIN01 (Products are delivered to the unloading connector of the Customer's tank). The term of delivery applied to piece goods is TOP Asiakkaan lastauslaituri FIN01 (Products are delivered to the Customer's loading bay).

15 Property and risk

The Customer shall keep itself informed of all laws (including Sanction Laws), regulations, rules, directives or guidelines.

- 20.2 If compliance with this Contract becomes unreasonable to either of the Contracting Parties due to conditions that have changed since the signing of the Contract, the Contracting Party who considers the situation unreasonable has the right to request negotiations and both Contracting Parties are obligated to negotiate on eliminating the unreasonable conditions. If the Contracting Parties fail to reach an agreement in such mutual negotiations within two (2) months of the date on which the Contracting Party who has claimed unreasonableness submitted a request for negotiations in Writing, both of the Contracting Parties have the right to terminate this Contract with a period of notice of six (6) months.

21 Assigning the Contract and subcontracting

- 22.3 In case the revised Sales Terms would materially increase the Customer's obligations or would otherwise be unreasonable to the Customer, the Customer has the right to terminate the Contract, effective on the date the change enters into force, by submitting a notice to that effect to the Seller in advance.

23 Confidentiality

- 23.1 The Customer commits to keeping in confidence all confidential materials submitted to the Customer by the Seller or its representative and not to using the materials for any purposes other than those based on a Contract or an Offer. The Customer commits to protecting the confidential materials handed over to it in the same manner as it protects its own confidential materials and at a minimum using the regular practices used to protect confidential information.

- 23.2 The term "confidential materials" refers to any materials and information (such as any data or information regarding the business plan, financial status, budget, products, services, product development, inventions, research results, intellectual property, marketing, and customers/principals/partnerships of the Seller or a Seller's Group company, and any other issues related to the business of the Seller or a Seller's Group company, including received Offers and Contracts) that the Seller or its representative discloses or reveals to the Customer or its representative, regardless of whether the confidential materials are in Writing, verbal, or in another format.

- 24.2 If a Contracting Party fails to fulfil or is delayed in fulfilling its contractual obligations due to force majeure, the Contracting Party shall not be deemed to have been in breach of contract.
- 24.3 If the Seller is unable to deliver the full ordered quantity of a Product to the Customer due to force majeure, the Seller has a right to refrain from delivering the full quantity and only deliver a quantity it deems sufficient. The Seller is not obligated to provide the Customer any compensation for such an incomplete delivery except by returning to the Customer the sum, if any, that the Customer has already paid for the Product that cannot be delivered. The Seller is not obligated to purchase replacing products from other suppliers.

- 27.2 The Seller is entitled to terminate the Contract with immediate effect if the Customer has failed to pay a due invoice in a reasonable time and despite being reminded to do so. The reasonable period of time is a maximum of ten (10) Weekdays from the reminder.

In addition, the Seller is entitled to terminate the Contract in full or partially by submitting a notice to that effect to the Customer if the Customer is in a financial situation based on which the Seller can reasonably assume that the Customer will not be able to fulfil its contractual obligations and the Customer fails to submit a reasonable collateral for compliance of its contractual obligations to the Seller within a deadline specified by the Seller. However, this deadline is a maximum of ten (10) Weekdays from the Seller's notification.
- 27.4 Even though the Seller and the Customer would have expressly agreed that the Contract is valid for a fixed period, the Seller is entitled to terminate the Contract fully or partially during the fixed period if the Seller gives up its business specified in the Contract. In that case, the Seller shall inform the Customer about the matter at least three (3) months in advance.
